Merchant network continues to strengthen with FOMO Pay partnership

Razer also announced today that it is entering into a partnership with FOMO Pay to enable Razer Pay acceptance at more than 4,000 merchants, as well as to simplify the process for new merchants to adopt Razer Pay.

Launched in 2015, FOMO Pay is a one-stop mobile payment aggregator that helps merchants connect their business to multiple mobile wallets through a single QR code, removing the pain points and complexity of working with multiple e-wallet providers.

Under this partnership, both companies will progressively roll out Razer Pay acceptance on FOMO Pay’s existing network of more than 4,000 acceptance points in Singapore.

Starting during the Beta phase, users can make payment at all 48 Buzz convenience stores, as well as all Dunkin Donuts outlets island wide.

FOMO Pay will also be acting as an official merchant acquirer for Razer Pay, streamlining the process for new merchants to adopt Razer Pay. This will accelerate the expansion of Razer Pay’s acceptance network in Singapore and offer consumers a wide variety of shopping experiences from day one of launch. FOMO Pay is trusted by major companies including Changi Airport, Marina Bay Sands, StarHub, Singapore Press Holdings, JUMBO Seafood, and Club 21.

“FOMO Pay was founded to facilitate the fast-growing mobile payment in Southeast Asia, and we’ve grown substantially to cover both online and offline merchants across the world,” said Zack Yang, Chief Operating Officer and Co-Founder of FOMO Pay, “Many of our merchants have seen accelerated growth upon the adoption of mobile payments. This partnership with Razer Pay is exciting for us as we believe it will enable them to extend their reach even further to the youth and millennial audience.”
